

Put the World to Rights

FREE weekly sessions expressing ideas creatively

Ages 13-16

 Rosehill

Calling all 13-16-year-olds interested in working with local artists and expressing their ideas.

Join us at Florence Arts Centre on 16 March 11am -1pm for a taster session to meet the artists and find out more.

What is it?

Free weekly creative workshops during the summer term where you will find new ways of expressing your ideas with many creative mediums, including performance, poetry, visual and digital arts.

Working with professional artists you will be given the space to express your ideas and create work that speaks to you and to other young people.

At the end of the project there will then be the opportunity to share your work and ideas.

Who is it for?

This project is suitable for anyone age 13-16 interested in creativity and making the world a better place.

You don't need to study a creative subject; you just need a willingness to try new creative things and be open to working with others.

When?

Every Saturday during term time from 20th April - 20th July, 11-1 pm. Refreshments will be provided.

How to get involved?

Come along to the taster session or contact Sue at: director@florenceartscentre.com

We can fund transport for anyone with barriers to accessing these sessions - just let us know.
